OHS and IM Management Systems

An Occupational Health & Safety Management System is intended to provide a framework for developing and implementing improvements in occupational health and safety. As an accredited and certified OHS Auditor Occupational Safety is aware of the requirements of an effective program and have the experience required to make it work.

Our Objective

Occupational Safety's objective is to provide companies with a complete package and support services to remove the worry of potential fines or prosecutions and allow them to meet their production targets, while complying with the Occupational Health and Safety requirements. We can assist your company to develop, document, and implement an OH&S Management System based on Workcover requirements and industry standards.

Some of the standards we can use are:

-  Australian Standard 4804 & 4801
-  Workcover Guidelines
-  CPSC Guidelines – NSW Government
-  Generic Principles to ensure statutory compliance

The system can be designed to suit both small and large companies with appropriate modifications.
